We ask our readers not to fail to examine the article on our first page on the subject of life insurance.

We have given some short extracts from the Okolona (Miss.) States, and intended to accompany taem with an article on kindred topics, but sickness prevented. We shall have something on this subject in future.

The plans we had made for publishing this week the best as well as the largest edition of the ENTERPRISE ever issued from this office, were frustrated by the illness of both editors. Any inaccuracies of short comings may be referred to this unforeseen emergency.

Country School Houses.

One need not drive more than five miles in any direction to see examples of the country school house.

It is usually built with reference the generally accepted theory that it is to be occupied by dangerous savages; adjacent orchards and meadows being quarantined sgainst the nuisance by as high and strong fences as can be afforded where wood sells in market at $1,50 a

We noticed one last week, not a long drive from Wellington, that will desinto the atroet, as usual, fronting the heats of the southern sky, and curtainless windows, destitute also of blinds, were liberally inserted on every side, except where any comfort could be got from having a broad opening at all, that I can most heartily recommend all parise from the north. Not a tree or shrub of any kind was near, save a stunted and mutilated young elm that bore evidence of having furnished switches instead of shade, and was not likely to be undisshade, and was not likely to be undisturbed long enough to minister to any higher necessities.

The extreme height of the posts of that school house could not have been over seven and a half feet, so that the attic fitted as snugly to the childrens heads as any inventor of penance and dunce caps could desire. A weedy, desolate common stretched to the dusty road, and in house or grounds there was not one thing to attract child or teacher, or make it even a decently comfortable place in which to spend six hours a day. Most of us can remember what the inside of these school houses are like-stove rusty and decrepid, desks cut, ink-blot. ted and marred benches without backs and built without reference to any physical proportions or requirements of restless and sociable childhood. Who that ever tried it can forget the "inelastic" quality of those benches or the persistency with which the sun marched around and threw a blinding and scorching broadside into books and faces. How recent seemed the smudge of sweeping, and as for a dust brush, who ever saw one in a red frame school house by the country highway. The taste of the water from the rusty cup and musty wooden bucket by the doorcould one ever forget that 'a'f and 'a'f mixture of luke-warm pungency and flatness? Considering the benches it seems less strange that 'twas counted a privilege to be allowed to go with some other boy or girl for a pail of water a quarter of a mile away; and it is no wonder that they made rude pictures on the walls and resorted to wood-carving on seats and desks as a slight outlet for repressed activity. The clearing of the land was much too thoroughly done when not a grove was spared in each school district with which to shelter a school room for its children. It was long ago conceded that cattle and other animals do better if provision be made and sincerely commend the Citizens' for them to find the shade in the heat of Mutual Relief Association of Wellingthe day, and the ignorance should not ton, Ohio. in Ohio be so dense as to presume that either teacher or children could do well in an unsheltered shanty like the one we saw occupied by a school last week.

But that the world moves is proven by the fact of an advancing civilization as exhibited in another school house: that in the Mason and Clifford district, west and south of Wellington village. The attempt to preserve young shade trees bear and forbear with the quack Yunhad been as great a failure there as elsewhere until one man in the district inwited the school boys to help set out some that he gave them, and see that no othas a monument to the taste, self-respect and good behavior of that school.

There are no blemishes or evidences of lawlessness on the part of urruly scholars, and the habits, manners, and merals of the pupils must be favora-

The best teachers will not apply for the school in districts affording such a building as we first described, and the best teachers will be secured by the district who build houses like that we have commended, reasoning upon the general principles of affinities. We do not know who teaches in either of these houses.

ing cathartic medicine that can be employed: cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vig-orous health.

AYER'S PILLS have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so tive organs of the body, and are so composed that obstructions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every-body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not indamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness.

Adapted to all ages and conditions these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. PREPARED DY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.
